High School at Home

Parents:

Gain the courage to homeschool through high school! Info on online classes, the new technology that will help with the difficult high school subjects, the information that you need to help your children with getting scholarships and making college and career prep choices.

Enjoy the Professionalism:

Why should other educators go to hotels for their conferences while homeschoolers bring bag lunches and sit on hard chairs?

This conference treats you right!

Enjoy the free buffet lunch, the free snacks during breaks, the sessions that are small enough for you to get answers to your questions, and the professionalism of the day and location.

25 Sessions featuring:

Susan & Howard Richman, PHAA Board members, homeschool grads, other upbeat homeschoolers, and admissions people from about 20 colleges. Come to the conference to explore high school courses and activities, college admissions and scholarships and writing crucial essays on SAT tests and college admissions applications.

Evaluators:

There will be sessions outlining how to award credits for the PHAA diploma and a chance for evaluators discuss the tricky situations that they have encountered. Many sessions will help you to be a better guidance counselor for your evaluatees.

Keynote Speaker:

Michael Robinson, Assistant Regional Director with Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Agency will be discussing College and Career Planning and Financial Aid for Homeschoolers

Students:

More sessions especially for you than ever before, including several panel sessions led by your fellow PHAA students, discussing the high school journey, socialization issues, entrepreneurship, doing AP or honors courses at home, along with sessions where you can join the Excelsior student newsletter staff. Meet online teachers, learn about award programs, and get information about college and careers.
